

KATIE, a popular undergrad who is faking cancer faces many struggles to maintain her secret, using her family, friends and the doctors to make money for herself.

JULIA

Nice to see you, Katie.

KATIE

I'm so sorry I'm late.

JULIA

Don't worry about it.

KATIE

You probably already saw, but I'm having a fundraiser Friday night. I wanted to give you a couple of comps if you can make it.

JULIA

Oh, that's so sweet. I'd love to.

KATIE

I guess I just need to sign a few things and I'll be out of your way.

JULIA

Did you not get my message?

KATIE

What do you mean?

JULIA

Uh...Emmy Schreiner
the Zhan Foundation flagged an issue with your application.

She hasn't received copies of your medical records.

KATIE

I sent those over.

JULIA

Well--

KATIE

They didn't get them?

JULIA

No.

KATIE

That's super wierd. I called my doctor and the receptionist said she was gonna send them off right away, they already charged my credit card.

JULIA

Okay, regardless, it's really important they get the files.

KATIE

I'll just call them again. It's no Problem.

JULIA

Okay, good, but the submission deadline is this Friday. All your records and paperwork have to be in by then.

KATIE

I don't think I can get them that quickly.

JULIA

I know, it's only five days now.
I'm sorry, but I did try to get a hold of you.

KATIE

What happens to the money after the five days? If the forms are in the mail, does it matter if they actually like receive them by--

JULIA

I just don't wanna hurt your chances here, Katie. There're a lot of deserving candidates who will have their applications in by Friday.

KATIE

I thought I was coming in to sign for the cheque. This money could really make a difference for me. How many applicants are there?

JULIA

The numbers change every year so I don't exactly know, but I'm friendly with the foundation and I think you're a shoe-in. They want to support you.

KATIE

So it's a guarantee then?

JULIA

Just get your medical records in order and we'll see to the rest.

KATIE

I can just take them straight to the foundation if you tell me where.

JULIA

No, it's best if it goes through us. To avoid any mix-ups again.

KATIE

Okay. I'll call right now. I'll have my dad drive them in.

I can have him do it by Friday for sure.
