

TODD - Okay, come here.

HAN - All right...Whoa.

TODD - This is what I wanted to show you.

HAN Is this like your office or something?

TODD - I guess you could say that... Here.

HAN Oh, wow!

TODD All this...This is, uh, how I keep my sanity. Painting first entered my life when I was around RJ and Max's age. What started out as dipping my fingers in the tips of the, uh, acrylics blossomed into all this. My refuge. It's how I can truly express myself.

HAN Huh. Is that...Is that what I think it is?

TODD - Very perceptive of you.

HAN That's...

TODD - You can say it.

HAN A butt hole?

TODD - Yeah. This series is called Portals. Each of them painted from life. I was lucky enough to have some of my best friends donate the time as models. Even Charlotte's up here somewhere. Fifty bucks if you can guess which one's mine.

HAN Butt hole? Oh, well. That one.

TODD That's amazing.

HAN - Really? Is that... That's... Huh. That's yours?

TODD That's me.

HAN - Oh, great.

TODD That's me.

HAN- That's great.

TODD - Do you paint?

HAN - Yeah. No.

TODD - Hmm.

HAN - I always wanted to, though, because I always felt like, you know...I always felt like I could.

TODD - Yeah.

HAN - Um, like I feel like if I did it,it would be, um, really...

TODD - Great. - No question. - Yeah.

HAN - Do you think...

TODD - I think there's never... Never an excuse not to try this.

HAN - Yeah? 'Cause these are amazing.

TODD - I think you could do it. And if you ever want, you can borrow some of my acrylics.

HAN -Really?

TODD - I got everything here. You can come paint with me.

HAN - I can come here and paint with you?

TODD - Bring RJ over, let him play upstairs, we could sit out here and paint.

HAN - You know what, I'm gonna start painting. I think I'm gonna start painting.

TODD You are painting. You are painting.

HAN- I'm gonna...I'm gonna be a painter.

TODD - You are a painter. You're great.

HAN - I feel like I just, like, made a decision.

TODD Really?

HAN - Yeah.

TODD - That's so cool.

HAN - Yeah.
