

JOHN

I spoke to Lizzie.

I told her what you told me.

She said, "Your brother Tommy is a dirty liar.

" But then I spoke to her sister and her cousin.

Bought them a couple drinks.

"Just a few of regulars," they said.

"That's all.

" "To keep the wolf from the door, "she still sees a couple of regulars.

" You must think I'm an idiot.

TOMMY

I think you're the first Shelby in history to have a legal licence for anything.

What would our granddad say, eh? He'd be turning in his grave.

"Honest bloody money? Eh?" "In this house? Here?"

JOHN

You always used to do voices when we were kids.

TOMMY

We're not kids now, John.

JOHN

But we still have to look out for each other, right? Yeah.

TOMMY

Yeah. Come on. Go home. Get some sleep.

We've got a big day tomorrow.

JOHN

We have?

TOMMY

Tomorrow, we finish the war with the Lees for once and for all.

JOHN
Since when?

TOMMY
Since just now.
Ten o'clock tomorrow. Be ready for anything.
